

It has become apparent that the FCC is being tested by political groups who have pushed the good faith of current laws to a limit that exceeds commonly held standards of decency. Allowing the Sinclair group to air programs clearly designed to influence political decisions should not be tolerated by any group. It is time the FCC took an intelligent stand.